

HOME SERVICE WORK OF THE RED CROSS

Some Local Cases Are Described By Members Of Red Cross Committee

The home service work of the Red Cross has stretched far beyond its original outlines. Miss Alice Patterson, home service secretary, incorporates in a recent statement of her work some of its various phases. Not only ex-service men and their families, but any individual in the county who is in distress, may lay claim to the aid and assistance of this organization. Many times the need is for something other than either financial or physical assistance. Here are a few of numerous instances:

A county physician reported a mother and one child very sick with typhoid fever; the husband and father unable to employ a nurse. The Red Cross sent a trained nurse. Three other children became sick with the same disease. The faithful trained nurse cared for all five, and nursed them back to health.

A little girl, suffering from a cleft palate, is one of the most interesting cases. She could scarcely be understood, so great was the impediment in her speech. She was taken to Columbus, where three operations have been performed upon her, and, it is stated, a fourth operation will restore to her the normal use of her faculty of speech. Already she shows great improvement, not only in her articulation but in her general health.

These operations were performed at the University hospital, Columbus. At this time, in the same hospital, there is a woman, a resident of Knox county, who has a mysterious ailment in one knee. She is there for a period of observation of her symptoms, preceding her treatment. Hospitalization, secured for these patients through our local Red Cross efforts, is free. Quite a number of our local physicians and surgeons give their services to the Red Cross for patients, and hospitalization at Mercy hospital is given free for all tonal work sent there by the Red Cross.

A young boy was reported to be giving his mother a great deal of trouble. He committed small thefts, stayed out late at night, and was influencing his younger brother in an undesirable way. Upon inspection he was found to be feeble-minded and, through the efforts of the Red Cross home service secretary, he was committed to the

KILL THE WET PROPOSAL

Wet interests, which but a few years ago were defending the saloon and resisting the efforts of the people to rid themselves of its burden of poverty, crime and demoralization, are united and militant in favor of the wine and beer amendment to be voted on in Ohio tomorrow.

The measure is pernicious, hostile to the public welfare and ought to be rejected by a decisive majority.—Cleveland Plain Dealer, Monday, Nov. 6, 1932.

C. C. LEITER CANDIDATE FOR CLERK OF COURTS SECOND TERM

I very much appreciate the term as Clerk of Courts which I am now serving and which is my first two years in any capacity in county office. If the voters who have thus far favored me with one term see fit to grant me a second term, no voter will ever be asked to give me a third. I am most thankful for the courtesies extended me by the voters of the county and if elected will render the best possible service to the community.

Sincerely,

C. C. LEITER.
